INTERNATIONAL STUDY ABROAD

The University of Nebraska at Kearney offers programs of study in approximately fifty countries around the globe.

UNK undergraduate students are eligible to participate in year-long, semester-based, or short-term programs during the academic year, summer months, or during specific UNK break periods.

The goal of these programs is to offer UNK Undergraduates an opportunity to gain international knowledge, develop cross-cultural communication skills, grow personally and professionally, and experience the world into which they will graduate. Approved credit hours earned will be recorded at UNK as a part of the student's regular transcript. Financial aid can also be applied toward most UNK study abroad programs.

More information about opportunities for international study can be found at www.unk.edu/studyabroad/ (http://www.unk.edu/studyabroad/) or by contacting the Study Abroad Coordinator in the Office of Study Abroad (unkstudyabroad@unk.edu).
